|  Vishnu Cosmic nature as the Mother of all vibrations has three phases in the Hindu Trinity. Vishnu is responsible for the "preservation" of the Universe, Brahma for creation and Shiva for destruction. These deities are indigenous in the vibrations of the Cosmic Mother. They work through the six angels and the twelve celestial Adityas and through many other beings or intelligent creative powers (angels) to carry on the creation, preservation and dissolution of the vast universe and its government. Vishnu is a differentiated force of Gods Creative Consciousness sustaining the universal body as one of the diverse manifestations that operate the government of the one omniscient spirit. The PRESERVATIVE or Vishnu state is a spectacular, awesome display of the creator's attribute of manifestation. Sri Vishnu who is also known as Narayana has a distinguishing characteristic in the Vedas via his association with Light, or his identification with the Sun. Often seen with Lakshmi as his consort and with four arms that indicate his all-powerful and all-pervasive nature. He holds a conch shell representing the creativity of fire, water, air, earth and space. A spinning discus like weapon called a chakra symbolizes the minds need to destroy one's ego and its illusory prison like self-existence in order to regain its real nature as omnipresent spirit. The mace symbolizes the primeval force from which all mental and physical strength is derived. | | | |  | | 1 Dvadashi Chitra | 2 त्रयोदशी Triyodashi स्वाती |
